Woman shot dead while in parked vehicle

By JOE GORMAN jgorman@vindy.com

YOUNGSTOWN Police are trying to put together the events that led to the shooting death of a 24-year-old woman.

Officers answering a gunfire call Friday afternoon on a West Side street found a woman dead inside a sport utility vehicle.

Police say the woman's death is a homicide, the ninth of the year in Youngstown. She is identified as Rae'venna Faircloth-Thomas of Youngstown.

Officers were called about 12:30 p.m. to the first block of Oneta Street for a report that someone in a car was firing shots at an SUV that was parked on the street. When officers arrived, the car was gone, but they discovered the woman shot to death in the driver's seat of Several neighbors who did not want to give their names said they heard the shots and they had not seen the SUV on their street before.

About 3:30 p.m., officers converged on a vacant home on Millet Avenue, also on the West Side, where they found the car that is suspected of being involved in the homicide. Detectives searched the car and took a person to the detective bureau for questioning.

Just after officers arrived at the crime scene on Oneta, it began raining. Detective Sgt. Ron Rodway said the BOARDMAN FOUND SOMEthing!" one boy called out excitedly. He and other participants in Boardman Park's Adventure Day Camp were digging for artifacts in the park's sand volleyball court Friday. Campers eagerly uncovered seashells and brightly colored gemstones.

The activity was organized and led by a group from Youngstown State University's department of sociology and anthropology. Several YSU students, led by instructor/ archaeologist Tom Delvaux, volunteered at the camp four days this week, culminating in Friday's dig. This marked the fourth year the YSU archaeology group visited campers.

The aim, Delvaux said, is that kids "get a taste for what archaeology is. It's a science. It's not Indiana Jones.

Archaeological skills "apply to a lot of different things," said Delvaux. "Methodology. Patience.'

Earlier this week, campers learned archaeology basics and got to see artifacts that

Despite local case, voter fraud remains uncommon

YOUNGSTOWN

Although the indictment of an Austintown man on two counts of illegal voting suggests that voter fraud does occur, data from the Ohio Secretary of State's office undermine claims of widespread fraud. Konstantinos Mouzos, 69, of CompassWest Drive, was indicted Thursday after being voting in the March 15 primary and the Nov. 6 general election last year despite not being an American citizen. Despite the indictment, the Mahoning County Board of Elections only has a record of him voting in the general election.

Illegal voting is a fifthdegree felony that can result in six to 12 months in prison.

More than 117,000 of Mahoning County's more than 166,000 registered voters cast ballots in the 2016 election. Three raised concerns with the office of Secretary of State Jon Husted.

"I have deep concerns with details in the U.S. Senate's plan to fix America's health care system and the resources needed to help our most vulnerable, including those who are dealing with drug addiction, mental illness and chronic health problems and have nowhere else to turn," Ohio Gov. John Kasich, a Republican, said in a Twitter message.

Kasich was part of a group of Republican and Democratic governors who wrote a letter last week to Senate leaders calling for them to work in a bipartisan way to revamp the nation's complex healthinsurance policies.

Another was Nevada Gov. Brian Sandoval, also a Republican. His decision to expand Medicaid has provided health coverage to more than 210,000 Nevada residents.

The expansion has provided coverage to 11 million people in the 31 states that accepted it. The Senate bill calls for phasing out the enhanced federal support for the expansion by 2024. The House calls for doing it by

In both plans, states could keep coverage for the newly eligible adults, but federal taxpayers would not continue to pay a larger share of the bill. The Senate bill also calls for a tighter cap on federal spending in Medicaid overall than the House bill did. Currently, there is no limit on how much the program will pay for care for those enrolled.

In addition, it calls for extra federal funding to be awarded to states for addiction and mental-health treatment, services covered by Medicaid. Both chambers would have to agree on details for the bill to be sent to President Donald Trump.

Curfew sweeps

YOUNGSTOWN The police department kicked off it annual curfew sweeps Friday. The sweeps will be looking for teens who are in violation of the city's curfew ordinance.

The ordinance says curfew for children under 18 is 11 p.m. to 5 a.m. There are exceptions for some events such as work or churchrelated events. The offense is a minor misdemeanor and parents can be cited. The penalty is a fine.

Police Chief Robin Lees said the sweeps will be ongoing throughout the summer.

No one was injured, but Gary Driscoll, 64, was charged after driving impaired south in the northbound lane for about 15 miles, the Ohio State Highway Patrol said.

The driver who was forced off the road contacted The Vindicator.

Driscoll was first observed driving the wrong way in Johnston Township. Troopers were unable to get him to stop, so they set up stop sticks on the highway in Liberty Township near Tibbetts-Wick Road and arrested him without incident.

Stop sticks deflate a tire slowly to give a driver time to stop without causing an accident, according to the www.stopstick.com website.

Child-sex sentence YOUNGSTOWN

The former principal of a Poland Township church school is going to prison for having sex with a 14-year-old girl.

Judge Anthony D'Apolito of Mahoning County Common Pleas Court on Friday sentenced Christopher Stivers to seven years in prison, according to 21 WFMJ-TV, The Vindicator's broadcast partner.

The sentence is longer than the six years recommended by prosecutors when the 32-year-old Struthers man pleaded guilty to two counts of sexual battery last month.

The indictment said the sexual contact took place between early October and late November, just days after the girl turned 14.

According to police, the activity took place at the Gospel Baptist School on Clingan Road, where Stivers served as principal.

After serving his prison time, Stivers will be required to register as a tier-three sex offender.

In assistant Prosecutor Diane Barber's filing, she says before Carney interviewed Harper at the hospital where Russell was being treated, Carney discovered that Harper had been convicted of three prior domestic-violence charges, one of which resulted in a prison sentence.

The Organizacion Civica y Cultural Hispana Americana started its monthlong summer program this week for the children of the city's multicultural community.

A usual day at the camp starts with a greeting and breakfast, then craft activities, outdoor activities and a field trip every week to places such as the OH WOW! The Roger & Gloria Jones Children's Center for Science & Technology downtown.

The camp also has guests come in challenge and educate the children.

A student from Ohio State University recently gave a class to teach kids about the healthiest choices to eat and an art student from the Mahoning County Career and Technical Center taught them about arts-and-craft projects.

Thirty-six children are registered in the camp's program, ranging from age 5 to 11. The camp is open from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Thursday until July 20.

for police, Nichols said.

"Īt begins with neighbor complaints about frequent traffic in and out for short periods of time, at all times of day or night," he said.

Those tips initiate investigations. The next steps likely include surveillance of the house, checks of the license plates on vehicles that go to the location and traffic stops that can lead police to drugs and drug users who can offer information.

"It takes a lot of time," said Nichols.

Another Wildwood neighbor said it was especially concerning because her house resembles 120 Wildwood, and suspicious vehicles often would pull into her driveway before pulling out and going to the other house.

"I am fearful for my life, because they all think it's his house," she said, referring to Michael J. Forgach, 41, who was among those arrested. Mahoning County auditor records show that the house is owned by John and Theodora Forgach, who records indicate live and own property in North Carolina.

Michael Forgach, along with Syrena Whitfield, 25, and Dawond Roddy, 31, all of whom reportedly live at the Wildwood address, were arrested on charges of heroin possession, possession of drug-abuse instruments, possession of drug paraphernalia and permitting drug abuse, according to police.

Forgach was arrested on charges of possession of drug paraphernalia and possession of drug-abuse instruments. Court records list those charges as dismissed.

On April 12, Forgach again was arrested at the home on charges of permitting drug abuse, possession of drug-abuse instruments, possession of drug paraphernalia and two counts of drug possession. A search at that time turned up crack pipes, a digital scale, $115 in cash, plastic bags, hypodermic needles and other drug-related items, police said. A green card grants an individual legal permanent residency but not citizenship, which is required to vote.

Green-card holders can lose their lawful permanent residency for committing certain crimes. In most cases, unlawful voting is considered a deportable offense under federal law.

This year, the secretary of state identified 426 noncitizens who were registered to vote, 82 of whom appear to have voted. There were 5.6 million ballots cast in Ohio during the 2016 general election, and 202 voters have been referred to law enforcement by the secretary of state. If all those cases resulted in convictions, that would mean three out of every 100,000 Ohioans who voted committed an infraction. "It is rare," said a spokeswoman for Husted. "But when it happens, we keep people accountable." President Donald Trump Chairman Mark Munroe said Trump's commission is long overdue.

He praised Husted for addressing the problem in Ohio, but he said there is not an efficient mechanism to prove citizenship.

Munroe added that while detection of voter fraud is rare, without complete lists of noncitizens, it can be difficult to keep them from voting.

"We do not have a good system in place to prevent them from voting, other than relying on their honesty to do the right thing and not vote," Munroe

The secretary of state's office said they compare voter rolls with BMV data because the BMV requires applicants to provide documents showing they are citizens or otherwise here legally.

However, Munroe said that even if voter fraud is rare, it's worth pursuing.

Many elections are won or lost by very small margins," he said. "If even a small number of noncitizens are voting in our elections, outcomes can be affected.'

Mahoning County Democratic Chairman David Betras said people who break the law should be prosecuted, but Republicans shouldn't use voter fraud as an excuse to engage in voter suppression.

He agreed with Ohio's Republican secretary of state.

"As Secretary of State Husted says, fraud is rare,' Betras said. "I believe him. the facts back him up, and that should be the end of the discussion."

the YSU team brought with learned about the tools archaeologists use and how to properly dig for artifacts. They also got to put their knowledge to use.

Crouched in the sand, campers clustered around the small, square areas that had been roped off for digging. They used trowels to push sand aside and uncover whatever might be hidden below. They then scooped sand into buckets and used large sifting screens to filter out sand and find small artifacts.

Kids expressed delight at the activity.

"I like digging," said Adelynn Rudge, 7, of Boardman. "We all found a little added.

Braeden DuPont, 7, smiled brightly as he showed off the seashell and gemstone he had unearthed. Finding seashells was his favorite part of the exercise, he said.

Will Garrett, 7, smiled as he said that he, too, liked finding items under the sand.

Karen McCallum, park recreation director, said the collaboration with YSU is a "great partnership."

It's "community involvement with a fantastic university group that wants to do this outreach," she said. "For the kids, it's great learning - and who wouldn't want to get their hands dirty and learn about history?

wastewater treatment plant on the south end of town for treatment with other wastewater. Eventually, the water flows into the Mahoning River.

Patriot began as a treatment facility for wastewater produced by the gas and oil industry, an alternative to injection wells.

Receiving fracking wastewater has challenges of its own, such as treating barium and salt, Haller said. But Patriot also has permission to accept wastewater from other sources besides the gas and oil industry. Last year, the city experienced problems with Patriot's discharging high levels of zinc from wastewater, Haller said. Then in May, Water Pollution Control started noticing the presence of dimethyl said. According to the Reactor Resources website, dimethyl disulfide is used in the sulfiding process, which removes sulfur and nitrogen from motor fuels. It's also used as a pesticide and a food additive in cheese, meats, soups, savory flavors and fruit flavors, according to the www. chemicalbook.com website.

Its odor has been described as pungent garlic, propane, decaying fish, or decomposing materials, according to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Andy Blockson, president of Patriot Water, said the key for him is that dimethyl disulfide is not regulated by the EPA, so his company is not required to test for it. As a result, he would not know whether the chemical is in any of the loads of waste his company received. "It's not a pollutant of concern," he said.

If Patriot discharged the compound, "we wouldn't know because we don't test for it," he said. Haller said testing indicated that Patriot did discharge disulfide in the water, Haller the chemical, and Blockson agrees that is true. But he also believes it has come from other sources because it's a common chemical and "it's everywhere."

Haller said one of the reasons the chemical went into Warren's treatment system is because Patriot was accepting wastewater from a Dayton-area landfill.

Blockson said it might have come from that customer, but it's an unregulated compound, so it might have come from multiple customers. "It's not illegal to be in the waste stream," he said.

When the public started complaining about smells, Water Pollution Control investigated its industrial facilities. The problem appeared to be focused in the Warren Industrial Park where Patriot is located because other industries in the park reported the smell, Haller said.

All of those and other industries tested showed very low or nondetectable amounts of the chemical, said.

vices organization moved to 3660 Shirley Road on the South Side. Élba Navarro and her husband, Shorty, a car-dealership owner and philanthropist, donated the building to OCCHA. The organization started out to meet the specific needs of the area's Hispanics, but it has since grown to involve the Mahoning Valley's multicultural community.

"Our mission here at OC-CHA is to strive to improve the quality of life of all the Hispanic and multicultural people that we serve in the community," said Mary Lou Reyes, OCCHA executive director.

Reyes said the biggest challenge for OCCHA has been funding, and she hopes the organization will receive more donations. To donate, call 330-781-1808 or visit the website at occhaohio.org.

out carrying the AK-47 and ignoring numerous demands from police to stop. At one point, Hammond's shoes fell off as he threw the rifle and a handgun he was carrying before falling on his face. He struggled with police before he was handcuffed by officers Michael Medvec and Detective Sgt. Josh Kelly.

Hammond also had a bag of suspected marijuana when he was searched, reports said.

Reports said Hammond complained he was not feeling well because he has asthma. An ambulance was called and he was examined at St. Elizabeth

Youngstown Hospital before being taken to the jail. This is not the first time Hammond has been charged with having an assault weapon and running from police. In August 2005, while on probation for a burglary charge, he faced similar charges after police spotted him in a stolen car in the 2200 block of Selma Avenue near the scene of a recent drive-by shooting. Reports said Hammond and another person in the car ran from police and Hammond tried to tackle an officer before he was caught. Inside the car police found a 9 mm assault rifle, several rounds of 9 mm ammunition and a .12-gauge shotgun.

In that case, Hammond was found guilty on weapons and receiving stolen property charges and sentenced to four years in prison.

In 2013, he received another four-year prison sentence on aggravated robbery, aggravated burglary and kidnapping charges from 2011 and also got a year in prison on a burglary charge.

In 2016, Hammond received two years' probation after pleading guilty to a charge of drug possession.

A discarded toy boat caught the eye of someone at GetGo on Friday morning and resulted in the gas station being closed for nearly three hours while the bomb squad investigated.

them to a suspicious package near Andy Frost said.

one of the gas pumps at the GetGo, 5163 Mahoning Ave.

Officers, concerned that it might be an explosive device, roped off the area and called in the Youngstown Police Department Bomb Squad.

The boat was made by taping plastic soda bottles together.

The way it was put together, Austintown police received a it was just enough to make you call shortly after 6 a.m. alerting concerned," Austintown Fire Chief Police evacuated employees the caller's child had made. while the bomb squad assessed the situation and took X-rays of the object. Youngstown police Lt. Doug Bobovnyik, head of the bomb squad, said no explosives were found.

While the bomb squad approached the package and began cutting it open, police received a call from the person who placed it there, who said it was a sailboat

"They must have just discarded it there, and it probably didn't fit in the trash can," said Austintown police Sgt. Greg Brinsko.

As a result, the GetGo was closed from about 6:30 a.m. until about While Friday's call ended up being a false alarm, Brinsko said notifying the police is absolutely the correct thing to do if you see something suspicious.

"You don't know what it is," he said. "It could be nothing, but you never know, and you don't want to take a chance of injuring yourself or others around you."

Frost added if the object is at a business, concerned customers can let management know. "They may know what it is," he said. "If they have concerns, they're instructed on when to call for help."

WARREN

Dian Fossey had a passion for mountain gorillas that only grew as she studied them in the forests of Rwanda starting in 1966.

Though the story of her 18 years as a researcher and gorilla defender ending with her murder in 1985 was turned into the awardwinning movie "Gorillas in the Mist," it's not a Cinderella tale.

Dianne Moran, one of the performers at this year's Ohio Chautauqua presentations in downtown Warren, made it clear during a presentation Thursday at the Warren-Trumbull County Public Library that Fossey did things her own way.

Less than a year after she arrived in Africa, during a her funding partners.

Ohio Humanities established Ohio Chautauqua, which travels to four towns in Ohio each summer. It first came to Warren in 2004 and has returned five times.

Chautauqua builds on the 19th-century tradition established on the shores of New York's Chautauqua Lake to combine living-history performances, music, education and audience participation.

Each day features adult programs and hands-on workshops for children. Evening performances include live music followed by a performance by an actor portraying a historic figure.

Tractor-trailer spills scrap metal

Lanes were closed for a few hours Friday as crews worked to clean up scrap metal that spilled after a tractor-trailer rolled onto its side at state Route 164 and Interstate 680 near the Western Reserve Road bridge. The accident happened just before 4:30 p.m. in Springfield Township, an Ohio State Highway Patrol dispatcher said. Emergency personnel transported the truck's driver to St. Elizabeth Youngstown Hospital.

Remains found off Pa. shore could be plane crash victim's

Staff/wire report

Remains found by someone fishing in Lake Erie might belong to one of three victims unaccounted for in a plane crash that killed six people just off the Cleveland shore last year, a Pennsylvania coroner said

Erie County Coroner Lyell Cook hopes DNA tests will identify the leg found about 8 p.m. Thursday near the Elk Creek Access to the lake, in Lake City, about 80 miles northeast of Cleveland.

The lake's currents flow toward Pennsylvania, and it's not uncommon for remains from as far away as Detroit and Cleveland to wash up along the Pennsylvania shoreline, Cook said.

The Dec. 29 crash killed six people, but the remains of only three have been found: pilot John T. Fleming, 45, of Dublin, Ohio; his 15-year-old son, Jack; and a family friend, Brian Casey, 50, of Powell, Ohio. The bodies of Fleming's wife, 46-year-old Suzanne; their 14-year-old son, Andrew; and Casey's daughter, 19-year-old Megan, could not be recovered. Cleveland officials searched for their remains for about three weeks.

The victims were flying back to Columbus after attending a Cleveland Cavaliers game when the plane crashed.

A preliminary report by the National Transportation Safety Board said John Fleming, a Columbus businessman, had received a certification to fly the Cessna Citation 525 just 21 days before the crash. The NTSB report didn't indicate why the plane suddenly lost altitude and crashed about a minute after taking off from Burke Lakefront Airport shortly before 11 p.m. that night.

John, chief executive of a Youngstown-started beverage distribution company, Superior Beverage Co., was piloting the plane, according to his family and a flight-tracking service Airplane debris including the cockpit voice recorder was recovered. Federal Aviation Administration records show Fleming purchased the plane in October.

THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER VIA AP Audrey DuBose, right, mother of Sam DuBose, looks at the jury as Hamilton County Common Pleas Judge Leslie Ghiz declares a mistrial in the retrial of Ray Tensing on Friday in Cincinnati. Tensing, a former University of Cincinnati police officer, was charged with murdering Sam DuBose during a routine traffic stop July 19, 2015. Jurors deliberated more than 30 hours over five days.

A 2nd mistrial: Jury deadlocks in Ohio cop's murder retrial

Associated Press

CINCINNATI

A second mistrial was declared Friday in the case of a white University of Cincinnati officer who killed an unarmed black motorist during a traffic stop. It's the latest racially charged police shooting case to show the reluctance of U.S. jurors to convict officers.

Hamilton County Judge Leslie Ghiz declared a mistrial after more than 30 hours of jury deliberations over five days. The jurors had said earlier Friday that they were unable to reach a verdict in Officer Ray Tensing's trial, but Judge Ghiz had sent them back to try again on the counts of murder and voluntary manslaughter.

Instead, they sent her another note some three hours later, saying: "We are almost evenly split regarding our votes." The note said they didn't foresee reaching a unanimous verdict.

Tensing looked down, his hand on his face, as the judge announced the mistrial over the death of 43-year-old Sam DuBose, who was shot in the head while driving away from the traffic stop July 19, 2015. Tensing and his family left quickly without comment.

The first trial against the 27-year-old Tensing also ended in a mistrial after the jury deliberated 25 hours over four days in November without reaching a verdict.

The case is among several across the country in recent years that have lice deal with blacks.

being sent is, if you are with murder because the victim [is] black," the NAACP said.

Prosecutors will have to decide whether to try Tensing for a third time. A spokeswoman for the county prosecutor, Joe Deters, said he won't comment until next week.

Judge Ghiz had rejected a prosecution request late in the trial to allow jurors to consider a lesser charge of reckless homicide, saying prosecutors could have done that after the first mistrial.

DuBose's family said they want a new trial and they urged that protests remain peaceful.

Dozens of demonstrators were outside the courthouse with rain coming down Friday afternoon, some chanting: "Black lives matter!

As in his first trial, Tensing testified in his own defense and said his arm was pinned inside DuBose's car when DuBose tried to speed away. Tensing was in tears during both trials as he testified he feared he could be dragged or run over by the car. "I meant to stop the threat," he told jurors last week. "I didn't shoot to kill him. I didn't shoot to wound him. I shot to stop his actions." Prosecutors said repeatedly the evidence contradicted Tensing's story. An expert hired by prosecutors said his frame-by-frame analysis of the former officer's body camera video showed the officer was not being dragged by the car.

SANTA M. GATTA, 90

NILES - Santa M. Gatta, 90, passed at 12:02 a.m., Thursday, June 22, 2017, at Trumbull Memorial Hospital in Warren.

She was born June 26, 1926, in Warren, the daughter of Tony and Sarah (Anerino) Garito.

Santa was employed at General Electric in Niles and Warren Lamp, in which she had the highest production of light bulbs in one shift under her direction. She later was a head cook at Cherry's Top of The Mall. She was a member of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Parish in Niles, enjoyed crocheting for her grandchildren and bird watching. From the time she was a little girl, she always had birds chirping in her house, and still till her last days, there are two surviving Canary's, Bangs and Tweetie.

Santa's family was always well fed. "Holidays were the best and as our matriarch, always seated at the head of the table. Her lead was measured in our good manners. Our enjoyment of an amazing dinner was a true testament to her good Italian cooking. So many special memories of her delicious pizzas, homemade sauce and meatballs, Easter bread, and so much more. We will always cherish Sunday dinner at grandma's house, there was never a question about the menu, pasta it was, or special menu upon re-

Santa and Ludy have been hand in hand for over 71 years of marriage. She was his "welcome home" from the war and sweetheart to survive for. From their walks home from school to their walk down the aisle. Santa and Ludy created a life that was a true example of growing old together. Through ups and downs and in sickness and in health, they did it together! They gave their family the truest example of unconditional love.

"Her legacy lives on through the many generations she leaves behind. It is through her life that we hold the example of a devoted wife, mother and grandmother, and great-grandma.'

Joint fire district is fined $5,347 for late payments

COLUMBUS

The Newton Falls Joint Fire District was fined $5,347 for making late payments from 2014 through 2015 to the state, IRS and Ohio Public Employees Retirement System. A financial audit of the fire

Senators ask military to review report on Yemen torture

WASHINGTON

Two senior U.S. senators are asking Defense Secretary Jim Mattis to investigate reports that U.S. military interrogators worked with forces from the United Arab Emirates accused of torturing detainees in Yemen.

Sen. John McCain, the Republican chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, and the ranking Democrat, Jack Reed, called the reports "deeply disturbing.'

The reports were revealed in an investigation by The Associated Press published Thursday.

London council evacuates residents amid safety concerns LONDON

A local London council has decided to evacuate some 800 households in apartment buildings it owns because of safety concerns following the devastating fire that killed 79 people in a west London high-rise.

The move comes amid escalating concerns among residents of thousands of tower blocks around Britain. The Camden Council is the first to take such a dramatic step in light of June 14 fire at Grenfell Tower.

Council leader Georgia Gould says the borough made the decision to empty the buildings after the London Fire Brigade and council experts had conducted a joint inspection of the properties.

Qatar weighs demands to end regional crisis

DUBAI, UNITED ARAB EMIRATES

With just days to decide, Qatar on Friday weighed an onerous list of demands by its neighbors as a way out of a regional crisis, and a top Emirati official warned the tiny country to brace for a long-term economic squeeze unless it is willing to acquiesce.

Qatar did not immediately respond after receiving a clear set of demands for the first time, but the ultimatum was quickly rejected by its ally, Turkey, and blasted as an assault on free speech by Al-Jazeera, the Oatari broadcaster that Saudi Arabia, the United Arab Emirates and others are demanding to be

Qatar's neighbors insisted the 13-point list of demands was their bottom line, not a starting point for negotiations. Law to make VA more accountable for vets' care

WASHINGTON

President Donald Trump signed a bill into law Friday that will make it easier for the Department of Veterans Affairs to fire employees, part of a push to overhaul an agency that is struggling to serve millions of military

"Our veterans have fulfilled their duty to our nation and now we must fulfill our duty to them," Trump said during a White House ceremony. "To every veteran who is here with us today, I just want to say two very simple words: Thank you.'

Trump repeatedly promised during the election campaign to dismiss VA workers "who let our veterans down," and he cast Friday's bill signing as fulfillment of that promise.

The measure was prompted by a 2014 scandal at the Phoenix VA medical center, where some veterans died as they waited months for care. The VA is the secondlargest department in the U.S. government, with more than 350,000 employees.

5 GOP senators now oppose health bill – enough to sink it

WASHINGTON Heller became the fifth GOP senator to declare his opposition to the party's banner legislation to scuttle much of Barack Obama's health care overhaul Friday, more than enough to sink the measure and deliver a stinging rebuke to President Donald Trump unless some of them can be brought aboard. Echoing the other four, Heller said he opposes the Democratic opposition, Mcmeasure "in this form" but does not rule out backing a version that is changed to tors and still prevail.

Nevada Republican Dean Mitch McConnell, R-Ky., has said he's willing to alter the measure to attract support and next week promises plenty of back-room bargaining as he tries pushing a final package through his chamber.

Rain bands reeling away from Tropical Depression Cindy spread drenching rains from the Southeast to the Midwest, triggering flashflood warnings over several states including West Virginia, whose residents Friday marked the anniversary of deadly floods last June.

Russia fires missiles at IS in Syria

Russia has fired cruise missiles from the Mediterranean Sea on positions of the Islamic State group in Syria, the Defense Ministry said Friday, Moscow's latest show of strength in the conflict wracking the Mideast country.

The ministry said in a statement that two frigates and a submarine launched six cruise missiles on IS installations in Syria's Hama province, destroying command centers and ammunition depots. It did not say when the missiles were launched.

Moscow has fired missiles from the Mediterranean at militants' positions in Syria before, including launches from a submarine and a frigate in May at the targets in the area of the ancient city of Palmyra. Russia is one of the strongest backers of Syrian President Bashar Assad's government and has been carrying airstrikes in the country since September Separately on Friday, a senior Russian lawmaker said Moscow is "nearly 100 percent" sure that the IS top leader was killed in a Russian airstrike last month.

The Defense Ministry first made the claim last week, saying that Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi's death in the May 28 strike on the outskirts of the Syrian city of Raqqa was still "being verified through various channels."

9/11 worker pardon unlikely to spark trend

Associated Press

NEW YORK

The New York governor's pardon of a World Trade Center disaster worker fighting deportation to Colombia after a drug conviction is the latest example of politicians trying to rescue individuals from their immigration problems, but the mixed and unpredictable results make it unlikely to become a common occurrence.

Carlos Cardona had his 1990 drug conviction wiped off the books by Gov. Andrew Cuomo this week, improving the Queens man's chances of remaining in the U.S. while he receives health treatments for ailments linked to his work on the Sept. 11, 2001, recovery effort. His case follows several other recent instances when Democratic gover-nors have pardoned individuals facing deportation for state crimes that sometimes occurred years earlier. The pardons have come after President Donald Trump ordered increased deportations, resulting in a boost of more than 35 percent in his first 100 days in office when compared to the same period last year. It works some of the time," said Jason A. Cade,

a University of Georgia

School of Law professor who has studied how the practice has evolved over the last century. "It is a way to avert what might be unfair deportations in certain cases.

It did not work after Virginia Gov. Terry McAuliffe pardoned Liliana Cruz Mendez for a minor driving offense after she was detained by immigration agents when she arrived May 18 for a regular checkin. The Falls Church, Va., mother of two was sent back to her native El Salvador anyway. Colorado Gov. John Hickenlooper, hoping to stop a deportation, pardoned a Cuban immigrant, Rene Lima-Marin, last month for an armed robbery he committed 19 years ago. Cade said changes by Congress in the 1990s pertaining to when pardons can excuse drug offenses for immigration purposes created "a lot of weirdness" so that pardons sometimes are effective for more serious drug crimes but not for lesser offenses.

In addition to pardons by governors, some prosecutors are thinking twice before filing charges that might result in deportation, raising the risk that a 'parallel system of justice emerges where it is different for noncitizens."

Our VOICE

Helping Zac Brown Band make history in Y'town

UDY GARLAND'S CLASSIC lyrics from "Somewhere Over the Rainbow" eight decades ago that "dreams really do come true" retain an enduring application to what promises to be the blockbuster event of summer in the city of Youngstown.

That event, a gigantic outdoor concert this August featuring three-time Grammy Award winning country-rock act The Zac Brown Band, had a similar

"What started as a pipe dream a few years ago is actually exceeding our expectations. An artist of this magnitude will undoubtedly be a night Youngstown will never forget," said Ed Muransky, of the Muransky Companies, which is copromoting the concert with JAC Manage-

It also promises to be a night that makes history. The buzz surrounding the Aug. 24 concert and tailgate at Stambaugh Stadium is reaching fevered levels as tickets for the event go on sale to the public today at the Covelli Centre box office and at Tickemaster.com.

To be sure, superlatives swirl around the Y Live event. The concert promises to be the largest in the city of Youngstown's two-century history, filling Stambaugh Stadium with up to 21,000 fans, a level that eclipses that of the Penguins' football games in the heyday of their national championships.

It will feature one of the most popular musical acts in the nation today. The Atlanta-based band enjoys a huge following and boasts 11 No. 1 hits on the country charts. Its current hit, "My Old Man," has been riding high for 20 weeks.

The concert also will offer one of the best opportunities ever for the city and the university to put their ongoing physical renaissance on prime display for visitors from across Northeast Ohio, western Pennsylvania and elsewhere to see.

In a statement, Youngstown Mayor John McNally said, "This historic event will be uncharted territory in that the potential growth of the city's commerce, entertainment district and tourism will be exponential."

REDEVELOPED YSU AREA

Close to the stadium, many may marvel at the redevelopment of the university's Fifth Avenue corridor, with the most recent attractive additions of a Barnes & Noble bookstore and cafe and the second 220-bed phase of the University Edge apartment complex.

Clearly then, much rides on the success of the colossal concert. It's got many things working in its favor, including the expertise of Muransky and JAC, who singly or collectively have brought or are bringing such successful artists as Elton John, Barry Manilow, Lionel Ritchie, Pitbull, Ted Nugent and Loretta Lynn to the Covelli Centre or W.D. Packard Music Hall in Warren.

It also has competitive prices (tickets start at $45.50), a potential audience base of about 13,000 YSU students already back on campus for fall classes, strong support from corporate sponsors and the alluring star power of the band.

If all goes well, promoters hope to expand the concert into a multi-day music festival in the city. To some, that, too, may sound like a pipe dream. But, we're confident that all involved will make the Aug. 24 event a success and a prelude for even bigger and better dreams to come true in the city.

Doctors deserve sleep, too

Toledo Blade: People who haven't slept in 24 hours shouldn't drive. They're so tired it's more dangerous than being drunk. So can it possibly make sense for first-year doctors to be at work that long, taking care of patients?

The Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education has repealed its rule saying first-year residents must not be kept working more than 16 straight hours. That leaves them with the same cap that applies to more advanced trainee doctors: 24 hours, plus four more for handoffs. Another rule limits their average week to 80 hours.

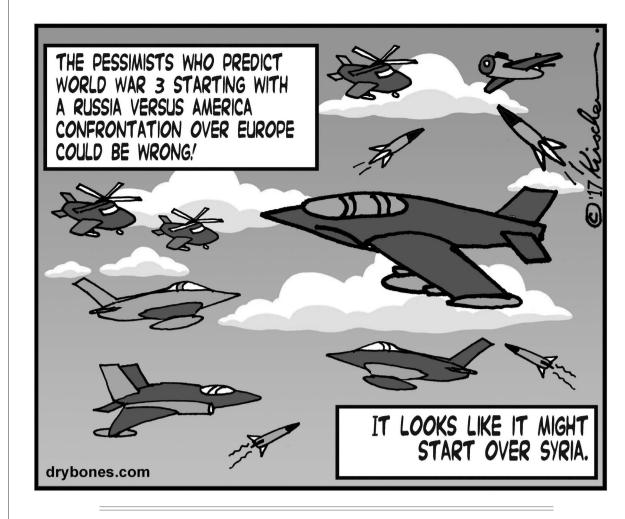

But the council's new rules also require both residents and faculty members to learn about fatigue and fighting it. The rules require policies to relieve, "without fear of negative consequences," residents who can't do their work, including because they're too tired. This culture change in medicine can't just be about first-year residents. Other doctors, including more advanced trainees, also work extremely long shifts. Physicians at every level must be taught to recognize when their patients need them to get more rest.

Health-care bill will haunt GOP, but not because of all the secrecy

By MICHAEL A. LINDENBERGER The Dallas Morning News

The big problem with the Republicans' new health plan isn't the secrecy with which it was written. Nor even the ridiculous speed with which they now plan to rush it through the Senate.

The problem is that Majority Leader Mitch McConnell and his lieutenants are just plum

How else to explain the jacked-up way the party is pretending the health-care repeal is really just a budget reconciliation measure, rather than a real live piece of legislation that will strip health insurance from millions of Americans? A budget reconciliation measure requires only a simple majority to pass and can't be filibus-

They know that they don't have the votes to pass such a dog pile of a bill under normal

That is, since they only have 52 Republicans in the Senate, they feel they'd have to bend too far to write a bill that would persuade eight Democrats to vote for it, enough to avoid a fili-

What's wrong with that? Well nearly everything. But let's start with the big-picture

DELIBERATIVE BODY?

The reason the Senate operates differently from the House is that the Founders reasoned there was advantage in having at least one of the chambers of Congress be deliberative. The reason the Senate requires a 60-vote majority to get past a filibuster is because. especially on very large changes to our laws, there used to be a feeling that requiring a majority party to work hard to win ings about the bill. Hearings over at least some of the other team would ensure that the bill was thoroughly hashed out.

Rep. Michael Burgess talked with The Dallas Morning News editorial board this week. He talked sense about all sorts of things. But when he said that the Senate decision to operate under reconciliation rules had limited the lawmakers' flexibility when working on the Obamacare repeal bills, I asked him why his party had decided to go that route.

His answer: That's how Obama and the Democrats operated when they rammed the Affordable Care Act down the Republicans' throats, and so that's how the Republicans are going to ram down their replacement bill.

Ain't Washington great? Except of course, in this particular case it doesn't even happen to be true. Not even

LEGISLATIVE TRICKS

The Democrats pulled a number of legislative tricks toward the end to get their bill past the 60-vote threshold. And it's true that by the time the final version made it to the floor, there were plenty of lawmakers who hadn't read the whole bill.

So disgusted were certain members of the minority party that they loudly declared that if ever the political fortunes changed, and they were in the majority, they would run things with far less secrecy.

Actually, by "certain members" I mean McConnell, who promptly forgot about that pledge.

But long before the Democrats were busy pushing their bill through at the end, they had held plenty of open hear-that were open to both parties and the public.

Senate Republicans have, by contrast, held only "listening sessions" open only to Republican lawmakers.

But as I said, it's the not the secrecy that's telling here. It's the craven politics.

YEAR-LONG PROCESS

Were Democrats hardpressed to pass their bill all those years ago? You betcha. They spent a year arguing about it, drafting it, and fighting over whether the moderates or the liberals would win. You might remember that liberal Democrats were for a singlepayer system, and the moderates believed they'd only get 60 votes if they adopted the centrist market-based approach pioneered by Mitt Romney in Massachusetts.

Obama sided with the moderates, and that's what passed.

But notice: The Democrats worked overtime because they needed a bill to pass with 60 votes. Republicans, who were outvoted in the presidential election and who lost seats to Democrats, had a choice. They could have tried to pass a bill that would have peeled off eight Democrats and created something of a bipartisan replacement for Obamacare.

But they didn't try. Is it because they lacked the votes?

Or the guts?

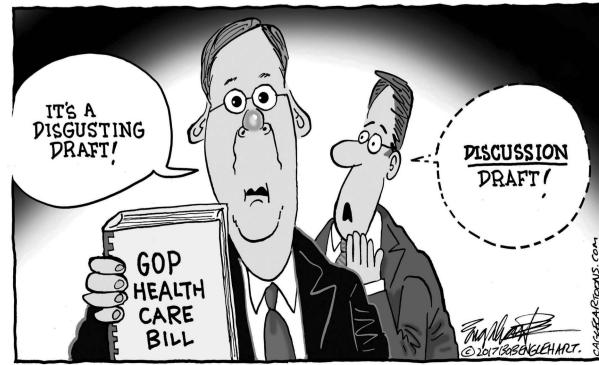

It's not easy to say. But when they do pass this loser of a bill, if they pass it, they are going to wear it come 2018. They might find that what they hoped would be a life vest is really an anchor tied tight around their shoulders.

Door to Cuba is closing

By JILL RICHARDSON OtherWords

There's a lot to say about Trump reversing some of the Obama administration's policies on Cuba. The White House recently announced it was banning individual travel to the island and further restricting what business Americans can do there.

Yes, there's a lot to say, but I wonder if there's any point in saying it. After all, most Americans want to relax the embargo on Cuba. Even most Republicans disagree with Trump on Cuba, polls

That requires a bit of explanation. America has a longstanding embargo on Cuba, preventing the U.S. from selling much of anything there. The policy traces back to the Cold War. The economic harm to the island resulting from the policy is obvious when one sets foot in Cuba.

When I visited in 2010, life had gotten better for Cubans since the hardest times in the early 1990s. Still, life was difficult. Meat was a luxury for Cubans. Milk was only rationed to young children. I bought a handmade dress for $15, a handsome sum to a Cuban but a pittance to Obama didn't end the embargo. It's still in place.

What Obama overturned were other Cold War-era measures. He restored diplomatic relations with Cuba and relaxed a travel ban on U.S. citizens visiting the island.

The only way I was able to visit Cuba in 2010 was with a special government permit, and by going for business instead of pleasure. The U.S. government also limited how much I could spend there. And, of course, I couldn't bring any Cuban rum or cigars home.

WORLD TRAVELER

I've traveled all over on five different continents. In college, I spent an entire summer in China, a Communist country with a bad human rights record - quite a bit worse than Cuba's, arguably - that the U.S. is on perfectly good terms with, thank you very much.

Yet I've never been hassled, searched, and investigated as much upon my return home as I was when I came back from Cuba.

On the way out, I had to first fly to Cancun and then board a second flight the next day to Cuba. On my return, I was questioned, searched, and scolded until I nearly missed my connecting flight.

The hypocrisy was jarring. Why is the U.S. on good terms with China but not Cuba?

After Obama relaxed America's anti-Cuba policies, you could literally fly Southwest to Havana.

I think the best comment on Trump's policies came in the form of a satirical "news" article: "President Trump Orders the Execution of Five Turkeys Pardoned By Obama." No, not really. It's a joke. But it exposes the motives and sentiments behind many of Trump's actions.

In part, Trump is probably working to secure the hard liner Cuban vote in Florida by undoing Obama's Cuba policies.

But more than that, Trump wants us to believe that Obama made America a "mess." To show us what a great president he is, Trump wants us to believe that everything was awful before him – so bad that it required Trump to make it "great" again, by undoing obvious boons like Obama's mild Cuba reforms. If Obama did it, it's bad.

Therefore Trump will do the opposite.

To Trump, trying to understand the complex background of America's relationship with Cuba is superfluous, since Trump himself doesn't understand it. Yet he's hurting both Americans and Cubans in the process.

Kansas jury awards $218M to farmers in Syngenta GMO suit

KANSAS CITY, MO.

A federal jury in Kansas has awarded nearly $218 million to farmers who sued Swiss agribusiness giant Syngenta over its introduction of a genetically engineered corn seed.

Syngenta vowed to appeal the verdict in what served as the first test case of tens of thousands of U.S. lawsuits assailing Syngenta's decision to introduce its Viptera seed strain to the U.S. market before China approved it for imports.

The lawsuits say that wrecked an increasingly important export market for U.S. corn, causing years of depressed corn prices.

Glass was selected by the expansion Vegas Golden Knights with their first pick Friday night, going No. 6 overall as part of a parade of forwards at the top of the NHL draft. The 18-year-old Canadian center had 32 goals and 62 assists in 69 games last season for the Portland Winterhawks of the Western Hockey League.

"I didn't really see that as a hockey place when I went there, but now, with the new team and the fans and season tickets sold out, I think hockey will be unbelievable," Glass said. "Just being there and walking down the Strip, it's something that's really nice. You don't see too much of that in Winnipeg.'

ON B4 ◆2017 NHL Draft picks from Round 1

The first NHL draft in Chicago began with another 18-year-old forward, with Swiss center Nico Hischier going No. 1 overall to the New Jersey Devils. The Philadelphia Flyers then grabbed Nolan Patrick at No. 2.

Ten of the top 13 picks were listed as centers. Defensemen Miro Heiskanen (No. 3 overall to Dallas) and Cale Makar (No. 4 to Colorado) and right wing Owen Tippett (No. 10 to Florida) were the exceptions. Vegas also opted for another forward prospect with its second of three picks in the first round, taking Nick Suzuki at No. 12 before selecting Swedish defenseman Erik Brannstrom with the 15th pick.

"The forward group is real strong," New Jersey general manager Ray Shero said.

After a symphony of boos for NHL Commissioner Gary Bettman and most of Chicago's rivals across the league, the crowd cheered when the Blackhawks finally got on the clock at No. 26. But they promptly moved back three spots in a deal with Dallas in the first of three trades announced during the first round.

The St. Louis Blues sent forward Jori Lehtera and two draft picks to Philadelphia for Brayden Schenn, and also traded physical forward Ryan Reaves to the Stanley Cup champion Penguins.

The crowd at the United Center cheered again when the Blackhawks got back on the clock, and general manager Stan Bowman played to the roaring fans when he brought out captain Jonathan Toews and star winger Patrick Kane to announce their selection of Finnish defenseman Henri Jokiharu.

"Jonathan Toews and Patrick Kane call my name, and it can't be a better feeling," Jokiharu said.

Harden finishes 12th at junior meet; Zallow runs for spot on Team USA

> By CHARLES GROVE cgrove@vindy.com

With the collegiate season over, Youngstown State track athletes Collin Harden and Chad Zallow are at their final hurdles this season literally and figuratively.

Harden ran Friday in the 400 hurdles of the USA Track

Championships, finishing 12th overall against the nation's best high school and freshmen college athletes.

Zallow runs the 110 hurdles today in a competition year's World Championa level above Harden, the USA Track and Field Outdoor Championships. The competition is how Team and Field Junior Outdoor USA will be selected for this this August.

Both competitions are taking place in Sacramento, tion and to represent the United States.

"I'd say this is the biggest thing I've ever ran in," Zallow said. "I'm going against guys who do this for a living -some of the better athletes in the world."

Oscar Gonzalez gave the Mahoning Valley Scrappers their first home runs and their third win Friday night. The Dominican left fielder hit two go-ahead homers and the Scrappers beat the Auburn Doubledays, 5-4, at Eastwood Field. All five runs came off his bat.

"It feels special. Thanks to God for the night," Gonzalez said through teammate Gianpaul Gonzalez, who was translating. "We've won two of three. We're happy and we're going to celebrate."

Trailing 1-0 in the fifth, the Scrappers

(3-2) got to Doubledays starter Ben Braymer. Gonzalez hit the team's first home run of the season to right field to take the lead at 3-1.

Auburn tied the game in the seventh after an RBI triple from Omar Meregildo and Joshual Ramirez's

RBI single, but Gonzalez broke the stalemate at the turn. He followed up on Samad Taylor's triple with a long ball to right

ST. LOUIS Josh Bell and John Jaso homered as the Pittsburgh Pirates broke their Busch Stadium hex with a 4-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals on Friday night.

Jaso, who entered as part of a double switch in the eighth inning, drove a 3-2 pitch from Seung Hwan Oh (1-4) over the wall in rightcenter to break a 3-3 tie in the ninth as the Pirates broke a seven-game losing streak in St. Louis.

Jameson Taillon threw 104 pitches in six innings, both highs since coming back from testicular cancer surgery on June 12. Only one of the four hits the Pirates righty allowed left the infield.

Felipe Rivero (3-1) pitched the Pirates out of a twoon, one-out jam in the eighth. Rivero worked around a ninth inning walk to secure the win. Bell's solo David Freese walked and scored to tie it 2-2 in the fourth. Freese advanced to third on a throwing error by second baseman Paul DeJong, the seventh by the Cardinals in their last three games which have led to seven unearned runs.

Freese's two-out RBI single off Trevor Rosenthal in the eighth tied the game 3-3. Freese has hit safely in 13 of 14 games against his former Adam Wainwright got through seven innings for the third time this season and the first time since May 27. Only one of the two runs Wainwright allowed was earned after he had allowed 18 runs in his previous 51/3 innings.

Jose Martinez's two-run homer, his second in three games, gave the Cardinals a 2-1 lead in the bottom of the second.

DeJong's solo home run gave the Cardinals a 3-2 lead in the seventh. It was De-Jong's fourth homer in his last seven games.

TRAVELERS CHAMPIONSHIP

CROMWELL, CONN. Jordan Spieth shot a 1-under 69 on Friday to maintain a one-stroke lead in the Travelers Championship. A windy afternoon kept anyone from catching him at TPC River Highlands. It also kept fourth-ranked Jason Day from making the cut for a second straight week. He bogeved the 18th for a 70 to finish at 2 over. No. 3 Rory McIlroy had a 73, also closing with a bogey, but managed to just sneak into the weekend at even par. Spieth began the day one shot ahead after a first-round 63. He started his morning round on the back nine and had to recover from a double bogey on the par-5 13th hole after hitting his tee shot left and out-of-bounds. The two-time major champion was 8 under.

AMERICAN FAMILY INSURANCE OPEN MADISON, WIS.

Paul Broadhurst shot a 9-under 63 on Friday to take a two-stroke lead in the PGA Tour Champions' American Family Insurance Open. The Englishman had an eagle and seven birdies — three on his final four holes — at University Ridge. He won the Senior British Open and PURE Insurance Championship last year. Brian Henninger had a 65, and tournament host Steve Stricker joined Kenny Perry and Billy Andrade at 66. Stricker is making his first start in his hometown event after turning 50 in February. He tied for 16th last week in the U.S. at Erin Hills. Fred Couples was another stroke back along with Kevin Sutherland, Corey Pavin, Stephen Ames, Brandt Jobe, Jeff Maggert and Phillip Price. Madison player Jerry Kelly opened with a 68, defending champion Kirk Triplett had a 69, and Nick Faldo shot 71. Faldo is making his first PGA Tour Champions start since 2015. Players were allowed to lift, clean and place their golf balls in the fairways because of wet conditions.

NW ARKANSAS CHAMPIONSHIP ROGERS, ARK.

Sung Hyun Park nearly matched the course record with an 8-under 63 on Friday to take the first-round lead in the NW Arkansas Championship. The South Korean, ranked eighth in the world in her first full season on the LPGA Tour, finished with nine birdies and needed only 24 putts to take a two-shot lead over Mel Reid, Ally McDonald and So Yeon Ryu. Reid had a hole-in-one on the par-3 11th and reached as low as 8 under before falling back with a pair of back-nine bogeys. Local favorite Stacy Lewis was one of five players three shots off the lead at 66.

gave up one hit in three innings, striking out three and walking none.

"I'm really excited about Zach. He showed signs of that in [extended spring training]. He threw really well and we saw a lot of that in extended," Scrappers manager Luke Carlin said. "His curveball was sharp, some of his sliders got away from him, but I love the fastball. He's going to be really good here.

The Indians took Plesac in the 12th round in the 2016 draft out of Ball State. His uncle, Dan Plesac, was a three-time all star in the major leagues with the Milwaukee Brewers in the late 1980s. The younger Plesac missed his entire rookie season while recovering from elbow surgery. "That was the deal. We had Zach at [three innings or 50 pitches] and he went out there and got it done,' Carlin said.

Also making their pro debuts in Niles were pitchers Jonathan Teaney and Riley Echols. Teaney pitched the sixth and got the win despite giving up two runs. Echols gave up a hit and an unearned run in the eighth. Domingo Jimenez struck out all three batters he faced in the ninth to earn the save.

Shepard was supposed to hit, he was effective.

In a moment of levity early in the contest, the Doubledays' first baseman was a little too eager to bat in the top of the second. He was

First baseman Ulysses Cantu extended his hitting streak to five games with a double in the fifth.

The Doubledays (1-4) pulled one back with Andres Martinez' sac-fly to put his team within a run of tying the game in the eighth, but got no closer.

The game was delayed at the start for 35 minutes due to rain. Although it rained earlier in the afternoon, there wasn't any rain during the delay.

INDIANS toward third base to start the fourth, Daniel Robertson sin-Continued from B1

"Adalberto probably had the most stressful five-inning, two-hit shutout that I've seen in some time," Twins manager Paul Molitor said.

Cleveland was coming off a 7-1 road trip, including a four-game sweep at Target Field last weekend that gave the Indians first place in the division. The Twins are now 1½ back. "This obviously shows we can beat them, that they're not unbeatable," Mejia said. Tyler Duffey, Taylor Rogers and Trevor Hildenberger combined to pitch the final four innings. Jorge Polanco's two-run homer highlighted Minnesota's four-run second off Trevor Bauer (6-6) and gave the Twins only their third win in 11 games against the Indians this season. Brian Dozier was 3 for 4 with two RBIs. The Indians scored five or more runs and recorded 10 or more hits in nine straight games, but stranded 11 runners and were 0 for 8 with runners in scoring position. "For not a lot of hits, we had baserunners it seemed like the first five innings,' Indians manager Terry Francona said. "Every inning.

And good chances. Weren't able to do anything with it." Mejia, who struck out four, retired the side in order just once — in the fifth. He didn't allow a hit until Lonnie Chisenhall's slow roller gled with one out and Mejia couldn't handle Jason Kipnis' tapper to the mound for an error that loaded the bases.

Erik Gonzalez, who struck out to end the second. whiffed again for the second out and Francisco Lindor lined out to left. Indians third baseman

Jose Ramirez wasn't in the starting lineup despite a 10-game hitting streak that raised his average to .321. He grounded out as pinch hitter to end the game against Hildenberger, who was making his major league debut. Ramirez was 1 for 4 on Thursday, ending his streak of nine consecutive games with at least two hits. NICE BOUNCE BACK

No one would blame the Twins for being tired in the series opener. Thursday's game against the Chicago White Sox was delayed at the start for 4 hours, 50 minutes by rain. The Twins' 9-0 loss then lasted 3:21.

TAKE A BREAK Despite grounding out in the ninth, Ramirez is batting .511 (24 for 47) in his last 11 games. With the Indians playing 22 games in 20 days, Francona wanted to give Ramirez a rest. 'You could tell he was dragging," Francona said. The last couple of days I think he knew he needed one, but he was swinging the bat so well. It's a good day to do it for him, let him get his legs back under him.

FRIDAY'S OTHER MLB GAMES

AMERICAN LEAGUE Red Sox 9, Angels 4

Hanley Ramirez and Sandy Leon hit two-run homers and Boston beat Los Angeles to cap a night in which David Ortiz's number became the latest retired at Fenway Park. It was the 250th career home run for Ramirez, a good friend of Ortiz who was also born in the Dominican Republic. Leon finished with three hits and four RBIs. The homers helped provide a nice cushion for Rick Porcello (4-9), who gave up four runs and struck out eight in 61/3 innings to earn the victory. It was the 13th straight start Porcello has gone at least six innings. Alex Meyer (3-4) allowed five runs and five hits in 31/3 innings. Los Angeles scored three runs in the seventh, but cooled off after Porcello exited.

Rays 15, Orioles 5 ST. PETERSBURG

Evan Longoria and Shane Peterson drove in four runs apiece to back the pitching of Chris Archer and lead surging Tampa Bay to a victory over struggling Baltimore. Peterson and Derek Norris hit two-run homers off Ubaldo Jimenez (2-3) as Orioles pitchers allowed at least five runs for the 20th consecutive game, tying a major league record set by the 1924 Philadelphia Phillies. Longoria had a two-run single during Tampa Bay's four-run first inning, and Peterson and Norris both went deep in the third to chase Jimenez, who yielded nine runs, seven hits and four walks in 21/3 innings. Logan Morrison also had a big night for the Rays, hitting his 22nd homer and finishing with three RBIs. Archer (6-4) wasn't especially sharp. But the right-hander didn't have to be with the Rays posting a seasonhigh for runs

Athletics 3, White Sox 0 CHICAGO

Khris Davis and Matt Joyce homered, Jharel Cotton pitched threehit ball into the sixth inning before leaving with a blister on his right thumb and Oakland beat Chicago. Davis hit a two-run homer in the first. Joyce connected leading off the fifth against Mike Pelfrey (3-6) and the Athletics picked up the win coming off four-game sweep by Houston. Cotton (5-7) and four relievers combined on Oakland's second shutout of the season. Cotton gave up a leadoff single to Kevan Smith and left after he came up shaking his hand following the first pitch to Adam Engel. Liam Hendriks, Ryan Madson and Sean Doolittle each worked a scoreless inning before Santiago Casilla ran into trouble in the ninth. He allowed singles to Melky Cabrera and Jose Abreu before getting out of the jam, picking up his 12th save in 15 chances.

NATIONAL LEAGUE Marlins 2, Cubs 0

MIAMI

Giancarlo Stanton hit his 19th nome run. Jose Urena scattered five hits over six innings and Miami topped Chicago. Christian Yelich added a sacrifice fly for the Marlins, who won for the second time this week with no more than three hits. Stanton had two hits and Dee Gordon the other for Miami, which got only two hits in a 2-1 win over Washington on Wednesday. Urena (6-2) won his fifth straight decision.

Nationals 6, Reds 5 10 innings

WASHINGTON Bryce Harper singled in the winning run in the 10th inning, Brian Goodwin homered twice and Washington got a solid performance from their bullpen in a victory over Cincinnati. Anthony Rendon and Daniel Murphy also homered for the Nationals, who trailed 5-2 in the sixth before coming back to deal the Reds their 12th loss in 13 games. Trea Turner singled off Raisel Iglesias (2-2) with one out in the 10th and took third on a single by Goodwin before Harper hit a liner that struck the right-field wall on one bounce. Matt Albers (3-1) pitched the 10th to cap an impressive night for the Nationals' bullpen, a maligned group that blanked the Reds on one hit over the final five innings. Braves 5, Brewers 4

ATLANTA Mike Foltynewicz won his fourth straight decision at home, shortstop Dansby Swanson made a pair of outstanding defensive plays in the ninth inning and Atlanta beat Milwaukee. Foltynewicz (5-5) gave up one run, four hits and three walks in five innings with nine strikeouts, improving to 4-0 with a 2.17 ERA in his last five starts at SunTrust Park. Brandon Phillips homered and drove in two runs, and Arodys Vizcaino earned his first save since last June 26 against the New York Mets. Eric Thames doubled leading off the ninth, and Domingo Santana hit a two-hopper to the second-base side of Swanson, who spun and threw out Thames at third. Travis Shaw flied out to the left-field warning track as Santana advanced, and Manny Pina lined out to Swanson, who made a diving backhand catch in the shortstop hole, for the final out.

NASCAR TRUCK SERIES

Nemechek wins

second straight

NEWTON, IOWA

John Hunter Nemechek raced to his second straight NASCAR Camping World Truck victory, taking the lead with his six laps left Friday night at Iowa Speedway.

Nemechek took four new tires during the final caution. The gamble paid off, as he passed leader Johnny Sauter soon after a restart.

The 20-year-old Nemechek raced to his fifth career victory, driving the No. 8 Chevrolet for his father, former NASCAR Cup driver Joe Nemechek. He won last week at Gateway in Madison, Illinois.

NASCAR

McQueen this week

SONOMA, CALIF. Lightning McQueen went to NASCAR's victory lane last week when Kyle Larson drove the "Cars 3" vehicle to a win. The McOueen paint scheme has shifted to Clint Bowyer's car this week, and he's looking to keep the winning streak going.

again," Bowyer said. "The kid (Larson) won in the Lightning McQueen scheme last week and it would be cool to take Lightning McQueen to victory lane again this week." His odds could be decent.

Bowyer won at Sonoma in 2012 and is piloting the car that Tony Stewart drove to victory — the last year. So Bowyer smartly removed any additional pressure by not telling 2-year-old son Cash about the special "Cars 3" paint scheme. He estimates Cash "no less than 300 times," tremely thrilled by the car.

But Cash wasn't invited to this race weekend in picturesque wine country, so Bowyer didn't mention Lightning McQueen.

"It is almost impossible to bring the kids on the road out here. The wives go out and have some fun," Bowyer said. "That is why we didn't tell him. Hopefully, he will be able to see it on the news come Sunday afternoon

SONOMA, CALIF. Seven-time championship-winning crew chief Chad Knaus was oddly calm Friday even though his race notes for star driver Jimmie Johnson this weekend had been stolen from his rental car in San Francisco. Knaus and his wife arrived in California on Wednesday night and headed to Fisherman's Wharf for dinner. Knaus told The Associated Press they parked at a meter in a bustling area and were gone approximately 90 minutes. When the couple returned, second session of the day. "I was hopeful that we would run well and fortunately we had a good tune-up for the track tonight," Kalitta said. "We're hoping to turn things around at our home track in front of home fans and we always feel good about coming to Norwalk." Matt Hagan topped the Funny

Car field, Greg Anderson took the Pro Stock lead, and Matt Smith was the fastest in Pro Stock Motorcycle.

Hagan also broke the track time record with a 3.865 at 333.33 in a Dodge Charger R/T. Anderson had a 6.808 at 208.62 in a Chevrolet Camaro, and Smith ran a 6.885 at 195.11 on a Victory Gunner.

Cavs donate $875K to local Habitat

CLEVELAND The Cleveland Cavaliers have donated $875,000 in proceeds from NBA Finals watch parties to Greater Cleveland Habitat for Humanity. Watch parties were hosted at the Quicken Loans Arena during the NBA Finals this year when the Cavaliers played the Golden State Warriors at Oakland. Fans could buy tickets online for $10. The watch party program launched during the 2015 NBA Finals, generating more than $260,000. Cavaliers CEO Len Komoroski says it's "highly appropriate" that playoff support can be translated into a positive outcome for Cleveland neighborhoods. The team has donated more than $2 million to nonprofits in the city through team fundraisers, in-game raffles and watch parties during the past three years. The Warriors won the championship, beating the Cavaliers in four of five games during the

Blue Jackets send Saad back to Blackhawks

The Chicago Blackhawks have re-acquired forward Brandon Saad (Mahoning Valley Phantoms, 2008-09) in a trade with the Columbus Blue Jackets, parting with top young forward Artemi Panarin to complete the blockbuster deal. The 24-year-old Saad spent his first four seasons with Chicago, helping the Blackhawks win two Stanley Cups. Concerned about their ability to re-sign Saad when he became a restricted free agent in 2015, the Blackhawks traded the rugged winger to the Blue Jackets. He had 24 goals and 29 assists in 82 games for Columbus last season

The Blackhawks also received goaltender Anton Forsberg and a 2018 fifth-round draft pick in Friday's trade in exchange for forwards Panarin and Tyler Motte and Chicago's sixth-round selection on Saturday.

The loss of Panarin is a big blow for Chicago. He teamed with Patrick Kane and Artem Anisimov to form one of the NHL's most potent lines the past couple 2002892

Oregon State to two hits over 7¹/₃ innings, and LSU ended the Beavers' 23-game winning streak with a 3-1 victory Friday to set up a winner-take-all Bracket 1 final at the College World Series.

The teams will meet again Saturday, with the winner going to the best-of-three finals beginning Monday.

The Tigers (51-18), who avenged a 13-1 loss to the Beavers (56-5) on Monday, became the first team to knock off the Beavers since Southern Califor-

After a lengthy indoor and outdoor season that stretched much longer than a high school track season, Harden isn't sad he's getting a bit of an offseason.

"Ĭt's been a long season," he said. "But it's over so now I get to relax and prepare for next season. Coach [Brian Gorby] said we'll start up in September, but I might do some offseason workouts.' While the result wasn't what Harden dreamed of, the trip wasn't all bad.

"Flying out to California wasn't too bad," Harden said.

Adding power to my game

What's new?

It's a greeting as much as a question these days. "What's new?" a friend may ask without really expecting me to unravel a yarn highlighting all that is new in my life.

But when anglers ask, "What's new?" they really are ready for a list of cool new stuff to try on their next fishing trips. They'll make time to listen, even when time is short.

New is exciting. New is fun. New, more importantly, might provide an advantage in the fish versus fisher encounters waged daily on waters here

I am like almost all the other anglers. I love new gadgets. I try to add a new thing or two to my fishing equipment annually. With decades of fishing behind me, I continue to marvel that great new stuff becomes available each year.

So I had been watching with interest as the new genre of shallow-water anchor systems swept the fishing world like a huge wave across a wide beach. In particular, I have been watching as pro bass anglers' boats continued sprouting the Power-Pole brand of hydraulically deployed bottom grab-

Power-Poles are mounted on either side of the transom – or both sides – just above the water line. They are controlled by wireless signals that can be beamed into the hydraulic pumps mounted in the bilge. Each pump powers the business end of the Power-Pole system, which is a hinged assembly made from aircraft-grade aluminum that reaches out and down to pin the boat to the bottom so that it remains stationary while the angler

Even if you aren't familiar with Power-Poles, you may have noticed them on boats you pass as they are trailered on the highways. Power-Poles are the long appendages hanging vertically off the stern on one or both sides of the outboard engine.

it's 21st century technology. It's really cool stuff. And it's packed with benefits. But I sometimes am a procrastinator and rationalizer. I had resisted buying and installing Power-Poles by telling myself I could do just as good a job handling my boat on the strength of the MotorGuide electric trolling motor.

Then I changed my mind. Today, the BassCat sports a pair of 8-foot Power-Pole Blades.

My bass buddies told me I was long overdue to get Power-Poles. "You're a shallow-water guy and I don't know how you haven't installed them already," one friend scolded late last winter.

I didn't do it for him, but I did decide to take the plunge. I hired Ravenna Marine to install the shallow-water anchor system. Other than the direct hit on my credit card, the process was relatively painless. It's been four weeks since I first put them to use and I'm impressed by the performance. I look forward to a long summer and fall of fishing with the new convenience of applying the parking brake and floating motionless next to fish-holding

I'll be using my new Power-Poles this weekend on Shenango, where I'll be working shallow cover. Soon, I'll be hitting Lake Milton and the backwater areas where largemouth and smallmouth bass thrive. Other venues on my 2017 calendar include Pymatuning, Presque Isle Bay, Lake Wilhelm near Meadville and Mosquito Creek Reservoir. "Guaranteed, they'll add a fish or two every time you hit the lake," said another friend as I weighed whether to invest in Power-Poles. So far, he's right.

my line this summer.

Conservation funding explained leave a false impression. Last week, for example, I received a press release announcing that the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, a branch of the Department of the Interior, will dole out $1.1 billion to state wildlife agencies in fiscal year 2017. I saw it as great news because that's how states get conservation dollars from the federal government.

I fear, however, many people will see that headline and wonder why the federal government is giving more than a billion dollars to state wildlife agencies. Wouldn't that money be better spent on education or infrastructure? Read on. The backstory is that not a single penny of those dollars comes from general tax dollars. The fiscal beauty of conservation is that it's a pay-as-you-go system. Federal funds distributed to state wildlife agencies come from revenues generated by the Federal Aid in Wildlife Restoration Act of 1937 (often referred to as the Sometimes a headline can Pittman–Robertson (P-R) Act in recognition of its sponsors, Nevada Sen. Key Pittman and Virginia Congressman Absalom Robertson) and the Sport Fish Restoration Act of 1950 (often referred to as the Dingell-Johnson (D-J) Act in recognition of its sponsors Sen. Edwin Johnson of Colorado and Rep. John Dingell Sr. of Michigan). More than $780 million comes from P-R funds, and more than $349 million comes from D-J funds. These dollars originate from a federal excise tax that hunters and anglers pay on the equipment they purchase to pursue their favorite outdoor activities. Hunters pay an 11 percent federal excise tax every time they purchase firearms, bows and ammunition. Anglers are assessed a similar 10 percent tax on purchases of sport fishing tackle, some boat engines and small engine fuel. Everyone who hunts and/or fishes pays these taxes. And that's the way it's been for nearly 80

Scott Shalaway

The importance of these funds cannot be overstated. Since these acts were passed, they have ensured a solid financial base for fish and wildlife conservation. And the most amazing thing about these taxes is that farsighted sportsmen demanded taxes on themselves to insure the future of wildlife.

Funds are distributed to the states based on a formula that takes into account each state's land and water area and the number of paid hunting/fishing license holders. This insures that larger, sparsely populated western states can compete for funds fairly with smaller, more densely populated eastern states.

The genius of the P-R and D-J Acts is that they stipulate that states can receive these funds only if their laws prohibit diverting hunting license revenues to any purservation.

To date, the Fish & Wildlife Service has distributed more than $19 billion to states for conservation. Over the years, state wildlife agencies have partially matched these funds with approximately $6 billion from the sale of state hunting and fishing li-

To demonstrate the actual impact P-R and D-I funds have on several individual states, let's look at some real numbers. Michigan, for example, gets $24.2 million in P-R funds and $10.6 million in D-J funds. In New York, the respective allotments are $20.3 million and $7.9 million. Ohio gets $16.2 million and $7.0 million. Pennsylvania gets $27.9 million and $8.5 million. And West Virginia gets $8.1 million and $3.5 million.

Obviously, a state's size is a major factor in determining how much funding it gets. Alaska, for example, receives $33 million and $17.5 million, and Texas gets $36 mil-pose other than wildlife conlion and $17.5 million. On the other hand, tiny Rhode Island, Delaware and Hawaii each get only $4.6 million and $3.5 million.

So if you see headlines over the next few weeks about all the federal money going to states for conservation, understand that each state gets only its fair share of what its sportsmen and women have paid into the system, and that's the way it's worked for 80 years.

Note to birdwatchers: If you see bald birds resembling miniature vultures at your feeders this summer, don't panic. It happens every year. Some experts blame an unusual molt pattern; others suspect a heavy infestation of hungry feather lice. Fortunately, the condition is temporary; the feathers will grow back out in about six weeks.

Dr. Shalaway can be heard on Birds & Nature from 3 to 4 p.m. Sundays on 620 KHB Radio, Pittsburgh, or live online anywhere at www.khbradio.com. Visit Scott's website www.drshalaway.com or com or 2222 Fish Ridge Road, Cameron

VOICES OF FAITH Q&A

McClatchy Newspapers (MCT)

God has so much power God has so much power it scares me. Should I be scared?

It is easy to become intimidated when we reflect on God as all-powerful, all-knowing and a just judge who demands an accounting of our lives. Still, these truths need not paralyze us, especially as we reflect on how God manifests himself in human history.

As God reveals himself in the person of Jesus Christ, he is still understood as all-powerful, all-knowing and a just judge. Additionally we see evidence of God's will: to gather the lost, heal the sick, reconcile the sinner and care for the poor.

Many Christians celebrate the Easter season by reflecting on the New Testament accounts of this powerful will. Jesus Christ demonstrates God's will to transform us into people who live lives moved by love and not by fear. "There is no fear in love, but perfect love drives out fear because fear has to do with punishment, and so one who fears is not yet perfect in love." (1 John 4:18)

Fear is replaced with love, and we are able to love because God first loves us. Rather than be scared by the power of God, one should rejoice in how God has demonstrated that power in our world. His power – shown in Jesus Christ - is not only evidence of God's love, but also the action that enables us to move from fear to perfect love.

THE REV. JUSTIN HOYE, pastor of St. Patrick Catholic Church in Kansas City

Who do you think God is? An old man with long, white hair and beard, sitting on a golden throne in the far reaches of the sky with a handful of lightning bolts?

If so, do you think God is watching your every move so he can punish you if you do wrong, possibly even send you to hell at the end of your existence? Do you feel you fail to measure up to this God's expectations because you were born sinful and unworthy by nature? If the answer to some or all of the above is ves, then you should most definitely be scared. As a matter of fact, you should be horrified.

There is a different way to think about God, one that I feel is much more realistic. God is spirit, an everywherepresent energy that is in you and all around you. This spirit is the very essence of your being, and it serves you without question or pause. God has nothing but your highest good in mind and provides you with life, love, peace, harmony, compassion and many other wonderful things. That indeed is a lot of power, but it will never be used to harm or punish you in any way. God is good, so don't worry; be happy!

On or off? Control over TV disrupts couple

Dear Annie: If I go to bed and watch TV, my husband insists I turn the TV off when he gets there. But he often puts on the TV if he goes to bed first, and when that happens, he immediately falls asleep. I change the channel to my preference and leave the room for one or two hours. If I come back and get quietly in bed, as soon as he realizes I am watching TV, he is irritated. Is this a control thing? If I am not there, he can sleep for hours with the TV on. And I actually turn it down lower when I arrive. Help!

I remember when my husband and I were in the same boat. I wanted him to go to Alcoholics Anonymous, not just to stop drinking but also to go through the 12 steps. The eighth step is to apologize to those you have harmed by drinking. I needed that apology to move forward. He could not just assume that everything was now hunky-dory because he stopped drinking. It hurts a spouse to her very core thinking that she ranks below the bottle. In this case, the wife may never feel No. 1 again.

Al-Anon helped me move past this when I reached the eighth step myself and apologized to the drinker for not looking at the positives in our life and only concentrating on the hurt. Even though he never attended AA to give me what I felt I needed, my attending Al-Anon helped me move forward.

Deneen Penn, a business management major at Kent State University at Trumbull, will head to Little Rock, Ark., next week to compete for the title of Miss Collegiate America.

Penn, a Maplewood High School graduate, earned the right to advance to the national pageant when she was crowned Miss Ohio Collegiate America in November.

In the national pageant, which will take place Monday through Saturday, contestants compete in three phases: interview, fun fashion and evening gown.

helped her earn the Miss Ohio Collegiate America title, Penn presented her resume that included an array of accomplishments and community services.

One of those experiences was "Stomp Out Bullying," a campaign that allowed her the opportunity to speak to local students.

The national platform and anti-bullying campaign of the Miss Junior High, High School, and Collegiate America Organization is B.R.A.V.E. (Building Respect and Values for Everyone).

"I want to help make sure all students have an opclusive environment," said Penn. "Whether through social media or in person, bullying continues to afflict youth of all ages."

The fun fashion portion of the competition allows contestants to represent their personal style. Henri's Cloud Nine has provided assistance to prepare for her competition, including interview and resume coaching, modeling training, wardrobe advice and ad-page design. The store also customized an evening gown for Penn.

"I am going to meet new

In the interview that portunity to learn in an in-country, support my sister queens in the pageant and in life, make a real impact in my community and learn so many new things," Penn said. "It's a really exciting opportunity. I encourage more women to enter into this outstanding organization next year, and I would be glad to offer any advice."

The pageant's prize package totals more than $50,000 for each of the three national titleholders (Miss Junior High, High School, and Collegiate America). Each prize package includes a $10,000 college scholarship, a $3,000 wardrobe from people from all over the Henri's Cloud Nine, model-

Fans ride to Georgia for film's 40th Burt Reynolds sits on a 1977 Pontiac Trans-Am at the world premiere of "The Bandit" at the Paramount Theatre during the South by Southwest Film Festival in Austin, Texas. Hundreds of fans of Trans Ams made it to Atlanta to celebrate the 40th anniversary of Smokey and the Bandit." About 350 cars retraced actor Burt Reynolds' wild ride from the Texas-Arkansas line to Atlanta in the movie that roared into pop culture in 1977.

Watch ole 'Bandit' run

By JEFF MARTIN Associated Press

They had a long way to go and a short time to get there, but hundreds of fans in Trans Ams have put the hammer down and made it to Atlanta to celebrate the 40th anniversary of "Smokey and the Bandit."

About 350 cars this week retraced actor Burt Reynolds' wild ride from the Texas-Arkansas line to Atlanta in the movie that roared into pop culture in 1977.

'Every town we drive through, people come out to film us, take pictures and wave as our convoy of cars comes through - it's like being in a huge parade," said organizer Dave Hall of Lincoln, Nebraska.

Truckers and others also took part in "Snowman's Run," a road trip that raises money for wounded veterans in the name of the late actor and musician Jerry Reed, who played the trucker Snowman in the movie.

All of them have gathered in Jonesboro, Georgia, the town 15 miles (24 kilometers) south of Atlanta where much of the movie was filmed.

This weekend, they plan to recreate some of the movie's memorable scenes, including a stunt driver's attempt to jump 150 feet (46 meters) through the air in a Trans Am. Also planned: A Burt Reynold's look-alike

Reynolds himself will also be in attendance, and will take part in a question-and-answer session in a city park, Jonesboro City Manager Ricky Clark Jr. said.

"People are coming from all over the U.S. and other countries," Clark said. "I got a message from someone from Switzerland who is flying over for this event."

Smokey and the Bandit was among the first big-budget movies to be filmed in Georgia, paving the way for more recent films such as "The Hunger Games" movies and TV shows such as AMC's "The Walking Dead."

Many of the scenes from Smokey and the Bandit were filmed on Main Street in downtown Jonesboro, nearby U.S. Highway 41 and other roads in the area, Clark said. Some of the buildings still stand, as well. The city's train depot that dates to 1867 appears in the movie, but movie-makers temporarily replaced its Jonesboro sign with one that said "Texarkana" so they could film scenes set in the town on the Texas-Arkansas line. That's where the movie's main characters picked up the 400 cases of Coors beer they would deliver to Atlanta in 28 hours.

Participants in the anniversary celebration plan to recreate the "Coors scene" at the spot where it was filmed in Jonesboro this weekend.

A stunt man driving a Trans Am had also had hoped to recreate the Bandit's jump across the Flint River west of downtown Jonesboro.

The leap allowed Reynolds and his passenger, Sally Field, to evade the pursuing law officers, whose patrol cars plunged into the river seconds later.

But organizers decided the river site, now overtaken by weeds, wasn't feasible for another jump. So they will instead recreate the jump at Atlanta Motor Speedway Saturday evening.

"The Young and the Restless" debuted in 1973.

The network said Tuesday it will bring back its full toprated daytime lineup for the 2017-18 season.

That includes "Let's Make a Deal" with host Wayne Brady; "The Talk" and "The Bold and the Beautiful."

Also returning is "The Price is Right," which CBS renewed for two seasons. Drew Carey hosts the game show.

'The Bold and the Beautiful" had previously been renewed through next season. It debuted in 1987.

Grantseeking and nonprofits workshops set

Kent State University at Trumbull and its Gelbke Library have assembled two free workshops to help individuals who are interested in starting a nonprofit and attaining grants. To register, call 216-861-1933.

"Is Starting a Nonprofit Right for You?" will take place July 11 from 9 a.m. to noon in Room 117 of the campus's Technology Building, 4314 Mahoning Ave. NW.

"Advanced Grantseeking for Government and Foundation Grants" will take place June 20 from 9:30 a.m. to noon, also in Room 117.

JEFF TWEEDY

Album: "Together at Last" ◆ Grade: B

With its paradoxical title, "Together at Last" features Wilco songwriter and lead singer Jeff Tweedy all alone with just his acoustic guitar and occasionally a harmonica.

Read one way, the title "Together at Last" could refer to Tweedy and his songs being brought together in a new way, without any interference, or contributions, from other musicians.

There are no new compositions on "Together at Last." Instead, Tweedy re-imagines 11 songs previously recorded with either Wilco or Tweedy's other side projects Golden Smog and Loose Fur.

With each song, Tweedy invites the listener into his Chicago recording loft to hear the familiar in a new way.

The versions Tweedy lays down here are similar to how he plays the songs when he tours solo without Wilco. For anyone unfamiliar with those arrangements, it could be quite a jolt hearing Wilco standards like "Via Chicago" and "I Am Trying to Break Your Heart" laid bare.

By stripping the songs down to their essence, lyrics that may have gotten lost in the previous full-band arrangements also now shine through, allowing the listener to re-engage with a new perspective.

So maybe "Together at Last" refers not to Tweedy's relationship with the songs, but ours.

WILLIE NILE ◆ Album: "Positively Bob" ◆ Grade: B

There are some analogies between Willie Nile and Bob Dylan, like their early career moves to Greenwich Village, extended layoffs (Dylan's motorcycle accident, Nile's record company torments) and decades of excellent songwriting.

"Positively Bob" took shape after a tribute concert for Dylan's 75th birthday where Nile's performances of "Love Minus Zero/No Limit," "A Hard Rain's A-Gonna Fall" and others were not only clear winners with the winner's oeuvre.

Sticking mostly to material from the 1960s, Nile puts a rollicking stamp on two of Dylan's most famous protest songs, "The Times They Are A-Changin" and "Blowin' In the Wind," which sandwich a galloping take on "Rainy Day Women #12 & 35" and form an energetic opening threesome.

"Subterranean Homesick Blues" acquires a rockabilly identity and a rendering of "Abandoned Love," another of those legendary tunes Dylan kept in the vaults for years, brings some well-deserved attention to a rarely versioned classic originally meant for 1976's "Desire."

The album is subtitled "Willie Nile Sings Bob Dylan" and strong accompaniment comes from guitarists Matt Hogan and James Maddock (himself a singer-songwriter worth discovering), bassist Johnny Pisano and Spin Doctors' drummer Aaron Comess, among others. There are plenty of details in

Dylan' songs even from 50 years ago or more which translate well as current affairs and Nile's interpretations make skillful use of that timelessness. Nile is too good and sincere to merely imitate Dylan and pays his highest compliment by performing the 10 songs as if they were his. Listen to Nile's other albums and find the proof.

SAM BAKER ◆ Album: "Land of Doubt"

◆ Grade: A

If Bob Dylan's Nobel Prize re-ignited the debate on what separates popular music from poetry, Sam Baker is here to complicate things further.

Baker makes elegant, original music. Nothing he does could be mistaken for anyone else's work.

Baker's career emerged from a remarkable life story. In 1986 he was on a train in Peru when a bomb set by terrorists exploded. Baker suffered brain damage, hearing loss and a hand injury that forced him to teach himself to play guitar left-handed.

The simple grace of his craft, on full display in his fifth release, "Land of Doubt," emerged from that tragedy.

With a sound both soaring and sad, the Texas-based Baker sings in a raspy talk-whisper that makes you stop what you're doing, sit down and listen. The words emerge in sharp relief from a soundscape of restrained guitar, piano, strings and muted trumpet.

Baker has mostly veered away from the story-portraits of earlier albums and toward songs about heartbreak and loss. There are hints of bitterness, and if there is hope to be found, it lies in the majesty of the music.

A song called "The Feast of Saint Valentine," for example, dwells on a "wish you well" card that hints at a recent breakup. Impossibly sad, it's delivered against an ascending backdrop that could be the soundtrack of mountains. Somehow, it lifts the spirit.

The effect, utterly evocative, may or may not qualify as poetry. But it is certainly poetic.

ASTROLOGICAL QUESTIONS: 'I went to a fortuneteller and he said that my Mercury was 'badly aspected.' He asked me if I ever had a speech impediment or had trouble taking tests. Then he told me that sometimes I lie and gossip about people and that I should stop. I was offended. I actually paid someone to insult me! My Mercury, by the way, is in Aries. Also, I stuttered as a child, but I haven't stuttered in years. As for gossip and lies, I think I do those things the normal amount." Your upset is understandable. Most people are mean enough to themselves that they really don't need the extra aggravation of paid insults! I like to think of astrological aspects as luck itself: Who is to say what is "good" or "bad"? Most people who have overcome challenges would cite those hardships as the best events in their lives, as those are the events that gave them superlative character and a skillset they would not otherwise have needed to develop. Some aspects, such as squares, semi-squares and oppositions, indicate a challenge. Trines, sextiles and semi-sextiles indicate ease. As for Mercury in Aries, it's a strong position, indicating originality and a strong "voice," not just your actual voice but your point of view, too.

Navi has had his day as Michael Jackson

By Jay Bobbin © Zap2it

■ I was very impressed with Navi, who played Michael Jackson in a recent Lifetime movie. What's his background? — Jean Price, Boulder, Colo.

■ Though the Trinidadborn Navi has earned international fame for his stage performances as Jackson, whom he's been portraying since age 15, he did his first actual acting beyond the singing and dancing in Lifetime's "Michael Jackson: Searching for Neverland." He says he's now leaving the Jackson connection behind to pursue other roles.

While his parents evidently wanted him to pursue a career in the construction field, Navi actually did know Jackson (whose family and estate didn't sanction the Lifetime project), and he says the music superstar used him as a decoy to distract paparazzi.

■ I enjoyed seeing Leah ■ Remini and Kevin James back together when she was on "Kevin Can Wait." Will she be back next season? — Linda Hart, via e-mail

▲ Yes, and in a very big way. She and James will be reunited permanently as she becomes a co-star in Season 2 of the CBS sitcom, as she reprises her police-detective role in what's being called a retooling of the show's format. Whether that means bringing James' character out of retirement to rejoin the police force remains to be seen, though that would seem a good bet.

One thing Remini's hiring has meant is the series' dismissal of Erinn Hayes, who played James' wife. It clearly wasn't Hayes' choice to leave, since she tweeted that she was "let go" and it was a "very sad" development, and the show will need to explain her character's absence in some fashion when new episodes resume in late September.

• I heard that Lauren Granew series that didn't make the fall schedule. What was it, and why wasn't the show ordered? — Matt Fellows, Antioch, Calif.

A Her Fox pilot was titled "Linda From HR." and

while the network's executives would be the ones to give specifics (which rarely happens) on why the series wasn't picked up, the "Gilmore Girls" alum will be seen in another series.

She has a recurring role in the long-overdue new season of HBO's "Curb Your Enthusiasm," and she's said that virtually all of her scenes also involve its mentor, Larry David. She also had to improvise a lot of her dialogue, which she's noted as a challenge for her, coming from such tightly scripted programs as "Gilmore" and "Parenthood."

■ Sir Roger Moore's recent passing got me thinking about "The Saint." How many other actors have played Simon Templar? — Daisy Allen, Buffalo, N.Y.

■ In television terms, there A mere two who followed Moore, who "owned" the role through most of the 1960s. lan Ogilvy has the part in "Return of the Saint," which had a U.S. run on CBS in the late 1970s. A decade after that, Simon Dutton played Templar in several adventures that got American distribution as part of the syndicated "Mystery Wheel of Adventure." (Just before that, Andrew Clarke starred in a "Saint in Manhattan" pilot that never got beyond that stage.)

In movies, other actors have taken on Templar. A "Saint" series of the 1930s and 1940s started with Louis Hayward, who was succeeded by George Sanders, then by Hugh Sinclair. Hayward made a comeback in the part in a 1953 film. The most recent actor to seen in the role is Val Kilmer, who played Templar in the 1997 movie "The Saint."

A TV revival of the franchise has been proposed for a number of years. First, it was going to star James Purefoy, then Dougray Scott, and then Adam Rayner. The Rayner pilot (which co-starred Eliza Dushku, and included Moore as a producer) actually was made, but several years later, it still has yet to be seen.

A decade later, the world is still a 'Zoo' as CBS suspense series returns

By Jay Bobbin © Zap2it

Ten years from now, the world as envisioned by James Patterson still will be a "Zoo" ... and, thanks to its animals, perhaps an even more

The best-selling author's novel (co-written with Michael Ledwidge) makes a big time leap as its CBS summer-series incarnation's third season begins Thursday, June 29. With Patterson remaining among the show's executive producers, it's now 2027 in the story line, and a decade has meant big changes for familiar characters who are among the steadily lessening human survivors — and also for their rampaging quarry, now even deadlier as "hybrids" generated in laboratories.

One "Zoo" figure who makes a major transition is journalist Jamie Campbell, still played by "House of Cards" alum Kristen Connolly. Having spent a dozen years being on the run from marauding animals while also seeking a cure for the crisis, she's reintroduced as an experienced woman of action, signaled by her markedly different appearance.

"She's really undergone a transformation in a lot of ways," the friendly Connolly confirms of Jamie. "Her values are the same, but she's been on a mission, not unlike how we saw her in Season 1. In this case, it's more focused on the people who took Mitch away. It's made her a little tougher, and I'm excited to see what the audience thinks when they meet all these characters 10 years later."

"Mitch" is Mitch Morgan, the veterinary pathologist with whom Jamie developed a relationship that went beyond their shared quest to stop the attacks. Spoiler alert: His portrayer, Billy Burke, is back in the regular cast this season. So are James Wolk, Nonso Anozie, Alyssa Diaz and Josh Salatin — and a new regular is Gracie Dzienny

The third season of "Zoo" starts Thursday on CBS.

"It's really afforded us the opportunity not only to play with the characters and the journeys they've gone on, but with what the actual landscape of the world is at that point," adds Connolly. "We're not so tied to contemporary reality, and it allows us to go even crazier. If that's possible."

The Bold and the Beautiful

Maya seemed unconcerned when Rick told her of a legal matter Carter brought to his attention. Nicole opened up to Coco about her sorrow over being unable to have children. Quinn was reminded how good she has it with Eric. Maya didn't understand why Nicole was asking for more time to sign the papers naming Lizzy's parents. Julius got ideas after Carter told him of Rick and Maya's legal issues. Rick angrily pressured Nicole to sign the adoption papers. Sally and Thomas brainstormed over how to publicly portray Spectra as a reputable company. RJ questioned Coco on whether her job at Forrester was having a negative effect on her relationship with Sally. Despite Zende's reassurances, Nicole struggled with the thought of possibly giving away her only chance at having a child. Maya felt hurt and confused by Nicole's refusal to sign the adoption papers. A nemesis from the past sought a surprised Brooke's forgiveness. Wyatt was not amused when Bill joked about threats made against Quinn's life. During a staff meeting at Forrester, everyone but Eric noticed the chemistry between Quinn and Ridge.

Days of our Lives

Steve had surprising news for Adrienne. Tripp gained Kayla's trust while plotting to frame her. JJ and Lani found Chad and Gabi in a compromising position. A feverish Paul got Eli to agree to something extreme. Nicole learned Chloe was moving to New York. Steve confronted Jade and Trip about the surprise they had for Kayla. Jennifer found Eric's letter to Nicole. An unlikely party helped Hope and Rafe close in on Deimos. Chloe's decision stunned Nicole and Brady. Chad learned of Abigail's plan to wed Dario. Hope and Rafe got a huge break in their case. Deimos and Sonny came to blows. Gabi and Andre had a confrontation. Victor handed control over to Sonny. Claire returned Ciara's letter to Theo.
