

TUESDAY

March 31, 2009

Vindy.com
The Valley's Homepage

LOCAL

MRDD honors client for putting out fire

▲ TIM GILBOY poses with his camera at his apartment in Canfield. Gilboy, a client of the Mahoning County Board of Mental Retardation and Developmental Disabilities, has won special recognition for his quick action to extinguish a fire at Rockne's Restaurant where he works.

PAGE B1

SPORTS

ECHL team Bombers to end play in Dayton

► THE ECHL, the hockey minor league in which city officials have shown interest in acquiring a franchise for the Chevrolet Centre, has confirmed that the Dayton Bombers will not play in the 2009-10 season.

PAGE C1

On balance, Valley gymnast is standout

▲ JASMINE THOMPSON, Iowa State University senior gymnast of McDonald, takes a shot at winning an NCAA regional championship, and perhaps even an NCAA national title in the balance beam event.

PAGE C1

HEALTH

Some insurers shun common conditions

► TRYING TO BUY health insurance on your own and have gallstones? You'll automatically be denied coverage. Rheumatoid arthritis? Automatic denial. Severe acne? Probably denied. This confidential information on some insurers' practices is available on the Web.

PAGE A6

ENTERTAINMENT

Urban's spiritual side

► COUNTRY SUPERSTAR Keith Urban says his fifth album signifies the power of the spirit to overcome problems.

PAGE B7

INDEX

Advice.....	B6	Local .....	B1-4
Births.....	A2	Lottery .....	A2
Business .....	B5	Newsmakers .....	B7
Classified .....	DI-3	Police.....	A2
Comics .....	D4	Reunions.....	B6
Courts.....	A2	Society .....	B6
Crossword .....	D4	Sports .....	C1-6
Editorial .....	A4, 5	Tributes .....	B4
Engagements .....	B6	TV grid .....	B7
Entertain.....	B7	Weather .....	A2
Jumble .....	D2	Years Ago .....	A5

COMING TOMORROW

► FOOD: Update your Easter ham with sweet-and-sour plum sauce. Also, check out some recipes for sweet and healthy Passover desserts.

SERVING THE MAHONING AND SHENANGO VALLEYS SINCE 1869

TheVindicator

50¢

Obama calls for 'painful concessions' from automakers

GM: 60 DAYS OR BUST?

Analysts stay upbeat about Valley plant

By DON SHILLING
VINDICATOR BUSINESS EDITOR

THE LORDSTOWN CAR plant should survive a presidential call for further restructuring of General Motors Corp. — if the automaker itself lives on, analysts say.

General Motors is spending $350 million at the Lordstown plant to begin producing the Chevrolet Cruze next year.

"The Cruze fits in right where the administration expects people to be buying cars over the long haul," said Stephanie Brinley, an analyst with AutoPacific, Southfield, Mich.

What the administration thinks has become very important.

President Barack Obama asserted unprecedented government control over the auto industry Monday, rejecting turnaround plans from GM and Chrysler and raising the prospect of controlled bankruptcy for either ailing auto giant.

As it pushes more changes, the administration will provide GM only with enough cash to survive for 60 days and for Chrysler to live on for 30 days.

"If he [Obama] is giving us an extension, that's good," said Rick Holloway, who has been an employee at Lordstown for 32 years.

For GM, Obama wants fewer models, brands and dealers, but the larger demands are for concessions from bondholders and the United Auto Workers, analysts said.

"We're not crazy about the added concessions coming our way, be-

See Autos on Page A3

Hope lingers in Lordstown

By KATIE SEMINARA
VINDICATOR STAFF WRITER

LORDSTOWN — Some are banking on Lordstown's future in the face of more hardship facing General Motors.

Michael and Judy Hodak of Lordstown recently purchased the Subway restaurant in the Lordstown Plaza on Tod Avenue.

"We're happy to be doing business here," said Michael Hodak, who chose

Subway for its business approach.

"In the short term, I'm always concerned about our neighbors, but in the long term, I think Lordstown will survive," he said.

Hodak worked at the Lordstown GM plant for 10 years during the 1970s and '80s and said if the company can prove it is viable within the 60 days given by President Barack Obama, then it should receive government aid.

"I think bringing new blood into GM isn't a bad idea, but only time will tell," he said of GM CEO Rick Wagoner's being replaced by Fritz

See Lordstown on Page A3

MORE GM COVERAGE INSIDE

► Fritz Henderson, new GM CEO, recognizes the automaker faces an increased risk of resorting to bankruptcy. B5
► Rick Wagoner, former CEO, will get a pension and benefits from GM totaling $23 million. B5
► President Barack Obama is dealing more sternly with the auto industry than he did with the banking industry. B5
► The Obama plan at a glance, including the protections and incentives for consumers. A3
► President Obama's support for the American auto industry is a rattling clunker. A vindicator editorial, A4

Miss Ohio USA Natasha Vivoda had almost all A's while taking honors classes.

By ED RUNYAN
VINDICATOR STAFF WRITER

CHAMPION — Chemistry and physics teacher John Fisher remembers Miss Ohio USA Natasha Vivoda from the chemistry classes he taught her during her junior and senior years at Champion High School.

The most notable thing about her may have just been her determination to succeed in the honors-level classes she took.

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

In 2004 and 2005, there was no way he could have predicted what the future of the flute player and majorette would hold, Fisher said, as he spoke Monday morning in the Champion High auditorium.

He and hundreds of others, including the student body at Champion High, wished her well as she prepared to travel Friday to Las Vegas for the Miss USA Pageant on April 19. She qualified by being crowned Miss Ohio USA last November.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

See Miss Ohio on Page A3

tion to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

In 2004 and 2005, there was no way he could have predicted what the future of the flute player and majorette would hold, Fisher said, as he spoke Monday morning in the Champion High auditorium.

He and hundreds of others, including the student body at Champion High, wished her well as she prepared to travel Friday to Las Vegas for the Miss USA Pageant on April 19. She qualified by being crowned Miss Ohio USA last November.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.

"When you were in my class, I had no indication that you would one day become a physical therapist."

"I remember seeing you in the classroom every day, paying attention to the marks on the board and never doubting yourself or doubting your ability to learn that difficult subject," he said of the 2005 Champion graduate.